

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Republican National Convention will meet in Chicago, Ill., on Tuesday, June 24, 1884, at 12 o'clock noon, for the nomination of candidates for the next election. The convention will be held at the McCormick Hotel, and will be open to all Republicans, without regard to past political differences, who are in favor of the elevation and dignifying of American labor, extending and protecting the masses of the people, securing free suffrage and an honest counting of ballots, effectually protecting all human rights in every corner of our common country, and who desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the land by securing a national government, cordially invited to send for each state four delegates at large, and from each congressional district two delegates.

D. M. SALIS, Chairman.
JOHN A. MARTIN, Secretary.

Ben Butler is the hippopotamus of the democratic party.

But wouldn't Arthur and Blaine make a booming ticket.

Mr. Wilson is so far improved in health that he can whisper.

Three broken democratic links—slavery, rebellion, and free-trade.

The Methodist conference will probably elect six bishops next Thursday.

The man who can carry New York should be the republican candidate.

There is no insurance for the democrats against the coming political cyclone.

The democrats always have to go to a political graveyard to find a candidate.

There is nothing else left.

Mr. Keos's motor is a good deal like the democratic promise to inaugurate reform. It never works.

If Mr. Blaine could retire some of his friends for the next four weeks, he would probably get the nomination.

The democrats in congress are counting another defeat. How it is drafting a second tariff bill.

If the democrats have any more Bills to be put out of the way, now is a good time to get rid of them.

The prayer of the democratic party that Blaine may be nominated may be answered in such a way that the party will regret that it did not pray for more brains, wisdom and common sense.

If an ambitious young man wants to make $9,000 in a few days, he should go to New York and walk 600 miles in one week. Nothing to do but just walk, get cheered by the multitude, and on Saturday night draw your money.

Mr. Ross over, the young man who has turned the New York city government upside down, who has been the central figure in the New York legislature in inaugurating reform, and who will take a conspicuous part in the republican national convention, is only 23 years old.

President Bascom, of the Wisconsin State university, will deliver the annual address before the literary societies of the Kansas State university during commencement week, in June, and the Kansas Williams alumni are to give him a reception in the evening at the close of the public exercises.

Thirty-eight republican state conventions have had the grace to resolve that President Arthur has made a splendid president—in all things fair, wise and just; and nearly thirty-eight republican state conventions have had the gall to say that they don't want any more of the man. With Arthur defeated in the convention that is a queer record to take in the campaign.

A Jersey City tobacco firm, has responded to the popular demand for literary training among their 3,000 employees, by establishing a library for their benefit. Ten thousand volumes have been placed on the shelves, and about one hundred newspapers and magazines will be taken. Playing cards, chess and dominoes are allowed, gambling, of course, being prohibited.

It takes a democratic paper to truly describe its own party, so listen to this from the Chicago Times:

That unprincipled cadaver, that body of historic putrefaction without bowels, that agonization of "ringed, streaked and speckled" politicians eating themselves the democratic party, once more performed upon them selves the interesting ceremony of the embowment.

A better pen picture of the democratic party can not be made.

According to the latest estimates concerning the presidential boom, the following is the comparative size of them:

Blaine
Arthur
Elihu
Logan
J. Sherman
Hayes
Gresham
W. T. Sherman

You will not need very powerful glasses to plainly observe that the man who is not a candidate is at the top of the heap.

An item for the curls on the fashion: "Although all the young men about town have not found it out, it is worse, the fact that pointed shoes are entirely out of fashion, and are now confined to collarless youth, wedded to light trousers, who congregate on the street corner."

A Philadelphia man thought he had invented a machine, which, by utilizing a thimbleful of water, would carry a steamship across the Atlantic ocean. This is a good deal like the democratic party trying to create reform and carry the country on a thimbleful of brains.

Patents were issued on May 6th to Wisconsin inventors, as reported to us by Messrs. Erwin & Benedict, patent attorneys, of 395 East Water street, Milwaukee, Wis., as follows:

Carriage-top, R. B. Buehler and W. Morris, Janesville.
Clover hulling attachment for thrashing machines, A. L. Gates, Surrey.
Mold for drain tiles, C. B. Hewitt, Racine.
Tread-power, E. K. Kibbourn, Janesville.
Locking device for closets, boxes, etc., E. T. Owen, Madison.
Bottle holder, E. R. Richards, Sheboygan.
Shelling and grinding machine, E. M. Wilcox, Whitewater, and W. E. Bonford, Omaha, Neb.

THE GRANT FAILURE.

The crash of the Grant & Ward firm is nothing less than colossal. The liabilities are ten times greater than at first supposed. General Grant has been so deeply complicated in the affairs of the firm of Grant & Ward, that he has been compelled to transfer all his property and Mrs. Grant's to William H. Vanderbilt to indemnify him for the check of $180,000. This transfer includes two houses in Washington, one in Philadelphia, and a farm near St. Louis belonging to the general, and the house they live in at No. 3, East Sixty-sixth street, and the cottage at Long Branch belonging to Mrs. Grant. U. S. Grant, Jr., states to the newspapers that every member of the Grant family had lost every dollar they owned. More than this, the private fortunes of their wives had also been invested in the defunct firm and swallowed up to the last penny; that they were hopelessly in debt, having borrowed large sums from members of their wives' families and outside friends. The liabilities of the family, including Ward, will not fall short of eight million dollars.

There will be universal sympathy for General Grant and his wife. To have their private fortunes carried away by financial torpedoes that frequently sweep down Wall street, is a matter of general regret. Of course, the general will soon be on his feet again, and the boys are sharp enough to look after themselves, taking good care not to have any more dealings with the bulls and the bears of Wall street. General Grant has a refuge from financial distress. The $250,000 raised for him six years ago is safely invested for him, and the income therefrom belongs to him, which is abundant to support him comfortably.

KICKING AGAINST COMMON SENSE.

The Madison Democrat in its issue of Friday, prints this editorial paragraph: "If there are any democrats in Ohio and Pennsylvania they had better nominate democrats for congress hereafter and not send republican wolves with democratic sheep-skins wrapped about them to congress in future."

This is a stab at the 41 democrats in the house of representatives who voted with the republican members to kill the Morrison tariff bill, 22 of whom are from Pennsylvania and Ohio. The Democrat is unjust in severely attacking these democratic congressmen who are opposed to the suicidal policy of free trade. The Democrat says to forget that there are two sides to the tariff question, and that it is not a disgrace to disagree with that paper in its position on that subject.

To a great extent the business of the world is managed on the principle of selfishness. This may not be a graceful confession, but the statement is nevertheless a fact. Self-interest is a great engine of power. It creates trade and brings prosperity. A man who wouldn't support his own family in preference to any other man's family, is a fool. A nation that wouldn't protect its own industries and its own workmen against the industries and the workmen of foreign nations, insults its own intelligence, and outrages its own people. James Buchanan signed the Morrill tariff bill in 1861, because it protected and protected the great industries of his native state. Randall spoke and voted against the Morrill bill because he wanted the industries and the workmen of Pennsylvania to prosper and not crushed. Conversely did the same thing because he wanted to protect the wool-growers of Ohio. Winans voted to restore the old duty on wool because the farmers of the First district denominated him and his constituents and Florida and Wisconsin want lumber protected because that interest is very important in those states. Virginia and Pennsylvania and Missouri want iron protected, and Louisiana wants a little duty on sugar.

With all these interests to look after, it is any wonder that 41 democrats voted with 118 republicans to kill the Morrison tariff bill? In honor they were bound to do it or betray their high trusts and stand self-confessed mis-representatives.

The Madison Democrat should take a more sober and common sense view of the defeat of the Morrison bill. There was no tariff reform principle about it. Morrison himself said, as a reform measure, it had no merit. Senator Beck, of Kentucky, said it was altogether unsatisfactory, still he voted for it. The fact is, there were not brains enough in the democratic free-traders in either branch of congress, to train a magnificent tariff reform bill. The Morrison bill simply chopped off duties to the amount of about 20 per cent. not heeding whether the articles were luxuries or necessities. The bill was not the creation of a statesman, but the invention of ignorance and ambition, and of a man seeking the democratic nomination for the presidency. It didn't mean reform at all; it meant to create a boom for Morrison, and all honor to the 150 who killed the bill and crushed the boom.

WORSE AND MORE OF IT.

Ten Millions Said To Be Involved in the Grant-Ward Smash.

Ben. Grant Prostrated Over the Disaster—Rascally Charged Against Ward and Fish—What People Say About It.

New York, May 10.—As the examination into the affairs of Grant & Ward, and the propped Marine bank progresses, their condition grows worse, particularly that of the former. It is now generally believed that the company's gross liabilities will reach $10,000,000, while some believe they will exceed those figures, and that when the full details of the transactions of the bank and Grant & Ward are made known it will be shown that the failure will be even greater than the situation of the bank in 1873. There is now little room for doubt that Gen. Grant's fortune has been almost entirely swept away. It is stated on good authority that the wife of the ex-president signed away all her rights and title to their property in this city and Long Branch in order to pay a loan recently made to the general by Mr. Vanderbilt, but the latter refused to accept such a sacrifice. It is also stated that ex-Senator Chaffee and Commodore Garrison, the Howards, and other well known people, are now largely involved and have yet been reported. A friend of Ward says that no doubt the collapse of the firm was due to Mr. Ward's individual speculation, which he said was begun two years ago, and that the other party, and in which Ward, being a bull, lost very heavily. The speaker said that it would be found in time that millions put in the firm by others were lost through these speculations.

Mr. Morris, the assignee of President Fish, who stepped in to take the affairs of the institution, declined to say anything relative to his work, further than that he was busy scheduling accounts and would be employed in that way for some time to come. Mr. McNamara, the assignee of Col. Fred and Jesse Grant, said he would be unable to furnish any information to the public until the affairs of Grant & Ward were straightened out. Mr. Davis, his partner, was doing all he could to bring order out of chaos regarding the firm's affairs, and he said he would be able to bring matters to a head for a day or two.

The several companies who entrusted large amounts of securities in the hands of Grant & Ward, which were rehypothecated, have been engaged, through counsel and others, in recovering them from the bankers and brokers with whom they were pledged. An officer of the First National bank said that he had been sent by the bank to recover the $25,000 which Ward drew on worthless checks on Monday afternoon.

"There is no doubt," said this official, "that Ward has rendered himself originally liable in this instance, as he has in other transactions which have come to light."

Another bank official said: "I would not be surprised to hear of the arrest of either Ward or Fish at any moment. In fact I am surprised they have not already been arrested. President Fish is a government official, according to the national bank law. Baldwin, of the Newark bank, was sent to state prison for speculating with the bank's money. I suppose the same law holds good with reference to speculative national bank officers in this city."

General sympathy is expressed for ex-President Grant and his sons. The rumor is repeated that Jay Gould and others of the general's friends are quietly raising a fund with which to equip him on his feet.

George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, is said to have wired Mr. Gould to put him down for $25,000. Friends of the general say he is completely prostrated. He was not at the office Friday. A United Press reporter inquired of Mr. Fred Grant as to his father's health. He replied that he had not seen him, but he was undoubtedly ill. Continuing, he said: "I know no further particulars of the general's affairs. I have lost everything by the failure, and am looking about for employment."

Mr. George Jones of the New York Times, said: "Gen. Grant's fund of $250,000 is invested in Toledo & Western second mortgage bonds, interest payable quarterly. His wife has paid the interest annually; the first of May of each year has paid the general annually in possession of $15,140, the interest in full on the investment. Hereafter we shall pay him quarterly, not only because he needs money, but because we do not mean that any one else shall lay hands on it. Gen. Grant could not touch a dollar of the principal even if he desired to do so, any more than I can. He can will it, however, at his death to his heirs."

The handsome residence of Ward at 51 Pierpont street, Brooklyn, has been attached and taken possession of by the sheriff. Mr. Ward, after leaving his personal office packed and instructing his servants where to bring them, entered a carriage, carrying his 4-week-old baby in his arms, and was driven to the residence of his mother. It is said that two detectives accompanied him to his mother's home, and that he was guarded by them. But having neglected to bring, or lost, the warrant of arrest, were unable to make him accompany them.

Tragic End of a Spree.

MARIETTA, Ohio, May 10.—William A. Bradford, of Ritchie county, West Virginia, got drunk in this city and was arrested by a policeman, who treated him roughly. He escaped and ran toward the Ohio river, with the officers in pursuit firing at him. Bradford fired at the policeman and plunged into the river. An officer followed and grappling with the fugitive a fearful struggle took place in the water. Bradford's lifeless body was taken from the river, and public feeling against the officer was wrought up to a high pitch, but he claims that Bradford attempted to drown him, and in self-defense he was compelled to use desperate measures and leave the man to his fate.

A Frenchman's Apology.

PARIS, May 10.—M. Poliveau, late secretary of the French consulate at New York, has published a formal apology for his avowed sympathy with Germany, which was resented by Gen. Tavis on board the steamer Normandie during a recent voyage to Havre. His only excuse is that he was under the influence of liquor. There is much political commotion upon this action, which is considered by many as taken simply to avoid a duel with the general.

Long Time Between Hangings.

RICHTON, Va., May 10.—Absalom Russell was hung at Janesville, La. county, this state for the murder of Ira Dean in July, 1883. A singular coincidence presents itself in the fact that this is the first execution in the county since May 9, 1837, just sixty-seven years ago.

Charles O'Connor in Extremis.

NANTUCKET, Mass., May 10.—Charles O'Connor, an eminent lawyer, who was taken sick with a severe cold two weeks ago, is failing fast. It is now feared that he is suffering his last illness, and the last sacrament of the church has been administered to him.

My head and throat ached so severely that I was obliged to keep quiet. Ely's Cream Balm was suggested. Within an hour from the first application I felt relieved, the pain began to subside. In a few days was entirely cured. W. A. Downs.

My son, aged nine years, was affected with catarrh. The use of Ely's Cream Balm effected a complete cure. W. R. Hammon, druggist, Eaton, Pa.

ANOTHER TELEGRAPH STRIKE.

A Rumor That the Go-Out Is to Occur When the Chicago Convention Meets.

St. Louis, May 10.—The Globe-Democrat says that there are symptoms of uneasiness among the telegraph operators and messengers of another presentation of grievances to the Western Union company, with the alternative of a strike unless the demands are granted. The talk has gone so far as to prompt the suggestion among the disaffected that the eve of the national republican convention at Chicago would afford the opportunity to give the corporation a telling blow. In the twenty-four hours there are intervals when operators of different and distant cities find time to converse over wires, and in this way the spread of another organization and of another effort to obtain what they conceive to be their rights have been discussed. How strong is the discontent, how far toward a reorganization they have progressed, how near the situation is to a general strike with the giant corporation are questions the members of the craft themselves are slow to answer. Last summer's surrender was not of principle, but of reluctant yielding of men to the will of the boss. They think they learned a lesson from that strike which will not be forgotten, but the lesson was not absorption from another movement in the same direction. There were blunders about that which they think would be avoided another time.

Mrs. DeLong's Testimony.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—In the hearing before the Senate committee on the case of Capt. DeLong, testified that her husband studied the provision lists of other Arctic expeditions before selecting the provisions for the DeLong expedition to search for the lost ship. Her idea was that oil and men should be alike. The route of the expedition was chosen by Bennett, after consultation with Dr. Petermann. Witness thought the ship was carefully and completely furnished with clothing and provisions. She felt perfectly satisfied that everything was done for the relief of her husband that could be done. She had a conversation with Bennett about the expedition the day DeLong reached New York. Bennett told her he had heard that very strict discipline was enforced on the Jeannette, and that he wanted the expedition to be strictly a military one. He also said that some criticism had been made upon Capt. DeLong for stopping on his way to the Siberian coast for the purpose of exploring Bennett island, but that DeLong would not have been the man he (Bennett) took him for if he had passed by any undiscovered land without examining it. In conclusion Bennett said he considered Capt. DeLong's death the most heroic thing he knew.

The National Medical Association.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—The American Medical Association, which has been in session here for the past few days, has adjourned sine die. During the session a resolution was adopted urging legislation against imported diseases, and also one on the subject of pleuro-pneumonia among cattle. Dr. Van Kline, of Ohio, moved that hereafter in opening the annual meetings, prayer be done away with, but the motion was lost by an almost unanimous vote.

The members of the National Medical association were received at the capital, which was brilliantly lighted for the occasion in the evening, by Vice President Edmunds and Speaker Carlisle, assisted by Senator Morrill, of Vermont. The reception took place and the guests were introduced by Dr. Garrettsville of Washington, and Dr. Davis of Chicago. After being presented to the heads of the two houses the visitors wandered about the building for the purpose of inspection, many going to the galleries of the house, that body being in session, and that in the senate chamber, where they were received by Surgeon General Waies and staff in full uniform.

Deliberation of the Methodist Bishops.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Bishop Harris announced in the Methodist conference that it was the judgment of the board of bishops that the election of three additional bishops will be adopted, provided for the regular members of the Episcopal office. The committee on judiciary reported that the general conference has the power to appoint a missionary bishop or superintendents for any foreign mission, and that the jurisdiction to the same, and with the exception of that, all our bishops shall be equal in authority and jurisdiction, and subject to the same assignments for work. It is the opinion of the committee that the general conference has power to fix the residence of all bishops in any part of the country occupied by the Methodist Episcopal church. The report was adopted with an amendment that the words "for the regular members of the Episcopal office" be stricken out. "All our bishops, shall be equal in authority," etc.

—Mr. John Long, the showman, who has been in the city a couple of days visiting his parents, returned to Chicago to-day.

—Don. John Huntley, of Aroa, member of the assembly from the first Rock county district, was in the city to-day.

—Rev. O. J. Hendley will officiate in Trinity church on Sunday, (to-morrow), morning and evening. Holy communion at 8 o'clock.

—The attention of horse fanciers and breeders is called to the advertisement of "Bashaw Goldust;" in another column of this paper.

—Lost—On North Second street, last Wednesday night, a black jersey jacket. The finder will confer a favor by returning it to this office.

—The Congregational and Baptist church will worship together to-morrow at the usual hours. Preaching by the Rev. Dr. Hodge.

—It was Anderson's orchestra that furnished the music for the Grand Army dance on Thursday night and not Smith & Corless as stated.

—Messrs. C. H. Church, E. J. Kent and Herman Buchholz returned home from Madison last evening, having been in attendance at the annual meeting of the grand lodge of A. O. U. W., as representatives of Olive Branch lodge of this city.

—Little Eddie Horne, while fishing near the Ford Mill, last evening, fell into the river and narrowly escaped from a watery grave, being rescued by some of his companions just in time to save his life.

—It is said that Dr. L. Keller, the horse thief, will plead guilty to the charge of stealing Nelson brothers' horse, buggy and harness, when brought up in the municipal court next week. He appears to be anxious to commence his term in Waupun.

—Mrs. J. F. Hart left the city Thursday for the east and will be out of town for several weeks. Mr. Hart, who has been confined to the house for some little time, is again able to attend to business and may be found at his studio on North Main street opposite the Gazette office.

—At the regular meeting of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R., held last evening, a committee consisting of Drs. J. B. Whitton and Henry Palmer, Colonel W. B. Britten, Major S. S. Rockwood, and Adjutant E. G. Harlow, were appointed to confer with the citizens and make arrangements for the proper observance of Memorial Day—May 30. The post tendered the use of their rooms for the meetings of citizens in making arrangements as above.

—The St. Patrick's T. A. & B. Society, always earnestly working for a good cause, have of late been instrumental in securing a series of temperance lectures all of which have proved beneficial; but the one to be given on next Wednesday evening, in St. Patrick's church, promises to surpass any yet given. The Rev. Father Cleary, of Kenosha, has responded to an invitation to lecture on the much-agitated subject, and all who attend will have the pleasure of listening to a fine orator, in whose remarks interest is never lost.

—Dr. E. E. Loomis has recovered one of the books recently stolen from his office—Webster's dictionary. It appears that the thief also visited the office of Dr. J. B. Whitton at about the same time, taking two books, one of which belonged to Dr. Post of Milton. It appears that the sneak thief left the city with the books, visiting Milton and putting some of the books up as security, for a night's lodging at the hotel among them the dictionary, and one that Dr. Whitton borrowed of Dr. Post. The thief left Milton before the real owners of the book were discovered.

—A large number of the friends of Mr. Jacob Snyder, of the Penber house, assembled at that popular hotel last evening for the purpose of a surprise party, and congratulating the host upon his return home from the south-west. Between forty and fifty couples took possession of the hotel; Smith & Corless orchestra furnished the music, and dancing, social games, and many-making reigned supreme until late in the evening. Good refreshments were provided, and the party was a happy and successful one, and Mr. Snyder feels proud at such kind remembrance by his friends.

—We beg a thousand pardons of our old friend Mr. James Hutson for announcing his death in last evening's Gazette. We found the following item in the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, in the ordinary column: "Hutson—In this city, Tuesday, May 6th, 1884, James Hutson, aged 79 years. Deceased had been a resident of this city for 12 years, was the father of Mrs. John Kiser and Mrs. Dr. Horne, of Janesville. Funeral services took place from his late home on Wednesday, conducted by James Croft and was largely attended." We took it for granted to be our James Hutson. We are now informed of our mistake, and that the deceased was only a relative.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Pierson, South Main street, has been thrown into deep mourning by the death of their little four-year-old son, Orin L., who died last evening at 7:30 o'clock, of scarlet fever. The little one had suffered terribly with the fever for the past week, and death came to it as the only relief. The blow is a sad one to the fond parents, at this particular time, as we understand all the family, including four other children, are suffering with the dreadful disease. The afflicted family have the sympathy of the whole community in their dark hour of mourning. The funeral of little Orin was held this afternoon at the home of his parents, on South Main street, Rev. M. G. Hodge, of the Baptist church, officiating.

—We hear a good story told at the expense of one of our economizing grocery-men, which runs about as follows: The groceryman instructed his clerk to save all the old waste paper in the store, and procure a couple of gunny-bags to put the scraps in, for which he paid fifteen cents a piece. Time passed, and finally the bags were full of paper, when the economizing groceryman hailed a rag-peddler. The rag man could only give a quarter of a cent per pound in trade for such stuff, and biding that he could obtain no greater figure, the groceryman accepted. The two bags were put upon the scales and only balanced at twenty-eight pounds, which at a quarter of a cent footed up seven cents. The only article the rag man had to exchange in trade appeared to be tin ware, and the groceryman was compelled to take a couple of small tin cups, which were turned in at cost, 3 1/2 cents each. The cups were hung up, in a damp place, and soon commenced to rust, and it was not until he found that they were so covered with rust as to make them unsalable, that he concluded to figure up how much he had made by saving old scraps of paper. He did not inform his clerk, but instructed him not to use gunny-bags for such purposes any more, but he thought it was just as well to make fire with old paper, as there was not enough to pay for the trouble of saving it.

This economic aspect is a strong point in favor of the use of Dr. Price's Special Flavoring extracts, vanilla, orange, rose, almond, lemon, etc. First, they are three times the strength of ordinary extracts; second, the bottles hold nearly twice as much as those ordinarily sold for the same size; third, they are made from the true fruits.

Circuit Court.

The jury in the case of Warren vs. Hull were out at the time of going to press. They have been deliberating since morning.

The case of George Sarsenon vs. Wm. Moore, was on trial this morning. It is a suit of a hired man against his employer for wages claimed to be due, payment being refused because he quit before the time for which he had engaged had expired. Messrs. Sale & Pierce are attorneys for the plaintiff, and L. K. Luce for the defendant. The jury were excused at noon until next Monday, at 2 p.m., and the court is occupied with motions this afternoon.

The next jury case on the calendar is DeForest against Taylor.

P. S.—The jury in the Warren-Hull case returned to the court room at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, with the announcement that they were unable to agree, and were discharged.

A Birth-day Party.

Yesterday being the thirty-eighth birthday of Mrs. Martin Zienow, wife of the senior member of the firm of Zienow & Black, of the west side restaurant, a number of the regular boarders resolved to only celebrate the event, and accordingly they and their friends assembled in the parlors last evening with Mr. J. L. Davey as the orator of the occasion. Mr. Davey, in a very neat little speech, presented Mrs. Zienow with a beautiful easy chair, upon which was placed a card bearing the following: "To Mrs. Martin Zienow, a birthday present from Charles Stevens, Edw. Watson, John Long, J. L. Davey, Fred Peck, Thomas Dolan, E. T. Tater, W. H. Ashcroft, Will Ashcroft, Samuel Yates, Truman Mosher, V. Price, Barney Reedy—May 10th, 1884." The handsome present was a surprise to the recipient, but it was nevertheless duly appreciated, and the party was heartily thanked for their generous and kind remembrance. Good instrumental music was forthcoming, and the guests held a merry "picnic" until time for retirement when all sought their home well pleased with the hospitality of the evening, and which will long be remembered by Mrs. Zienow and those participating.

"Having been in the drug business for thirty years," writes W. C. Field, pharmacist, of 1232 Cedar Avenue, Cleveland, "I have had no opportunity to learn the merits of therapeutic medicines, regular and irregular, and I have tried about everything and suffered everything, and nothing did me any good until I took Atlithophors. That is, and I have found it and will recommend it to any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia. It cannot be recommended too highly."

A New F-r-m-e C-h-a-r-l-e-s T-o-p.

Moore, Herman Buchholz and William Morris, of this city, have just received from the United States government a patent (No. 227,908) for a new improvement in carriage tops, which has heretofore been partially described in the Gazette, but which is more fully stated in their patent. (1) "In a folding carriage-top, the combination, with the bows of the top brace pivoted secured to the front and rear bows, and having knuckle-joints at either side of its front pivot, a forward-extending curved bow rigidly secured to the front ends of the top brace, and the cover secured to the bows and the forward extension. (2) The combination, with the bows, of a jointed brace pivoted secured to the front and rear bows, and a top-prop pivoted secured to the carriage-frame, with its upper end pivoted secured to the front bow at the juncture where the brace is secured, and (3) the combination, with the bows, of a top-brace secured to the front and rear bows, and provided with upwardly and downwardly working knuckle-joints, and a top-prop secured to the carriage-frame and front bow, and provided with an upwardly-working knuckle-joint." These tops are now being manufactured at the carriage factory of Mr. Herman Buchholz, in this city, and those who have seen them pronounce it the handiest top yet invented. There are less bows in this top, and they are set back, enabling a person to get into or out of a carriage without such annoying interference, and when the top is thrown back or let down, it is so folded that the whole interior is protected from dust by a self-made hood formed by the folds. Mr. Buchholz has these tops now on exhibition at his factory, and invites the public to call and examine. The letters patent bear date of May 6th, 1881.
